

From the Principal's Desk

The foundation stone of Bhawabhuti Mahavidyalaya, Amgaon, was laid down by late Shri Lakshmanrao Mankar, the founder secretary of Bhawabhuti Shikshan Sanstha, Amgaon, in the year 1969. The college was opened with the intension to provide higher education to the students of educationally and economically deprived families of rural and tribal area. At present the institution provides the education of various programmes viz. B. A., B. Com. and B. Sc. at UG level and M. A. in Marathi and Economics and M. Sc. in Botany and Zoology subjects at PG level. The institution strives hard for the overall development of the students so as to make them stand in the world of competition. The institution organizes various activities and programmes through the number of co-curricular and extracurricular committees formed in the college. A high class infrastructure with well-equipped laboratories and various physical and academic facilities in the college provide a proper teaching-learning atmosphere to the students. The institution provides a huge play ground for the practice of various outdoor games. Likewise the college has a well-built indoor sports hall for the practice of indoor games such as badminton, tennis, chess, taekwondo, kickboxing, etc. Proper teaching-learning in the class room, use of ICT tools by faculty members, various games and sports facilities, central library with number of books on various subjects, e-library for availing online learning resources, organization of various cultural activities, etc. contribute to mould the personality of the students in the right direction. Our college was reaccredited by NAAC, Bengaluru, with 'A' Grade with CGPA 3.11. Our college is a recognized centre for Higher Learning and Research for Ph. D. degree in Botany and Zoology subjects. I feel proud to state here that the faculty members in the college are well qualified, experienced and effort taking for the overall development of the students. All the faculty members in the institution are devoted to their profession and strive hard to provide best knowledge to the students with the learning resources available on the college campus. I cordially welcome the aspiring students and urge them to take education in this college and achieve their goals.
